

HEALTHY VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

At the Monash Alfred Psychiatry Research Centre, we do a number of human studies where we explore how the brain works, and how we can make it work better in people who experience mental illness.

This means that we are always in need of healthy volunteers to act as “control” participants.

In some cases, this may mean we are looking for volunteers to come into our centre and carry out behavioural or computerised tasks. Or, we may need volunteers to have a brain scan or undergo one of several brain stimulation techniques.

All of our studies are approved by Alfred Hospital and Monash University Ethics and carried out by hospital and university staff and students.

They cover a wide range of areas including psychology, cognitive science, psychiatry and medicine.

Most of our studies offer reimbursement for your travel, time and participation.
